

Wakatobi, Indonesia June 4-13, 2026 (10 Days/9 Nights)

Wakatobi is an archipelago of around 150 islands and atolls, located off the coast of Southeast Sulawesi, far from tourist crowds. It is a designated National Park and UNESCO Biosphere Reserve. Explore the largest barrier reef system in Indonesia offering world-class pristine reefs, stunning wall dives and abundant marine life. Expect to see turtles, reef sharks, and schools of trevally, fusiliers and triggerfish above the reef, while leaf fish, pygmy seahorses, nudibranchs, and more, live out their lives amongst the whips, sea fans, and corals below. A little further afield, the atolls of Koromaha and Koka to the east feature yet more thriving reefs, while the sites around Wangi-Wangi and Hoga Island present a marginally higher chance of pelagic species, including Mobula rays.
